THE CHINA MAIL.

HONGKONG, THURSDAY, NOV. 21, 1878.

REUTER'S two last telegraphic budgets contain one or two items of news of considerable interest. Foremost comes the announcement that in consequence of the Afghan difficulty a committee is being formed, with Lord Lawrence as chairman, to favour an immediate meeting of Parliament. As an ex-Viceroy and Governor-General of India, doubtless Lord Lawrence takes considerable interest in the Afghan question, although now an ultimatum has been despatched to the Ameer, it seems a little too late to trouble Parliament on the matter. Unless the collective wisdom of our two legislative houses could furnish some valuable hints for conducting a campaign in Afghanistan, which is not very probable, the chief results of a meeting of Parliament at the present juncture, would be a few long speeches with respect to our Afghan policy, already, it is to be hoped, decided on by Her Majesty's Government, and the nightly perusing of the Marquis of Salisbury and Colonel Stanley for "reliable" information as to the course of events on the north-western frontier. The reply to the Ameer to the British ultimatum has doubtless by this time been received, and should be shortly made public. It was on the 2nd November that the ultimatum was delivered to the commandant of the fortress at the entrance of the Khyber Pass, and as the distance from that fort to Cabul is only about one hundred and fifty miles, the ultimatum should reach the Ameer and the reply to it be received at Peshawar by the 18th instant. Should the reply be unfavourable, it seems rather a doubtful question whether an advance will at once take place or operations be deferred to the spring. If the report as to the terms of the ultimatum be trustworthy, that document must prove galling to the Russians as well as to the Ameer, inasmuch as a telegram from Bombay asserts that the ultimatum informs the Ameer that he must dismiss the Russians from his country and preserve a position of complete neutrality. It is quite probable that the ultimatum does make a demand of this nature, seeing that the presence of the Russian Embassy at Cabul gave rise to the present difficulties. Most likely it demands either that the Russians be dismissed, or that a counter British mission be received. That, however, would scarcely comprise the whole of the British demands under the circumstances. One significant paragraph in a recent telegram asserts that "a Russian expeditionary force has been despatched to Merv—an important town about 500 miles to the north-west of Cabul, and considerably to the south of the river Oxus, which has hitherto been regarded as the ultimate limit beyond which the Russians cannot be permitted to advance southward without a corresponding move on the part of England. The ostensible object of this expeditionary force will no doubt be to watch the Russian frontier; its real object is in all probability to secure any advantages for Russia that may offer themselves as the results of the coming campaign in Afghanistan, and to afford the Ameer as much moral and, possibly, substantial support as advisable, as well as a safe refuge in the event of his discomfiture.

Considering the great outcry that has been raised by the American journals regarding the Halifax award, the announcement that a United States despatch declares that award unjust and excessive might perhaps have been half expected, although one would have imagined, seeing the United States Government has been unable to find claimants for the fifteen millions of dollars paid to them under the Alabama award without protest and in the face of Sir Alexander Cockburn's dissent from the award, that our American cousins would have paid over these five millions of dollars without grumbling, especially as the money has been already voted for the purpose. The matter is one that concerns Canada rather than the United Kingdom, but it is nevertheless to be hoped that Lord Salisbury will stick to his reply that the award must be maintained, unless the United States Government exhibits its willingness to return the money of the Alabama award still lying unexpended in the Treasury at Washington. The principle of international arbitration is a grand one, and invariably productive of satisfactory results, except to the losing party. We came out badly under the Alabama arbitration, and grumbled amazingly for two or three years; it is now the turn of our trans-Pacific brethren, and while they may grumble to an unlimited extent, it becomes a great and enlightened republic to pay up its debts smartly and honourably.

The past year seems to have been a rather unfortunate one for the sovereigns of Europe. Two attempts have been made on the life of the German Emperor. The young King of Spain lost his wife a few months after marriage, while a Reuter's telegram, dated October 25th, informs us that an attempt to assassinate the same sovereign has been made by the Internationalists in Madrid. Then in Rome, besides the death of the "Sovereign Pontiff," occurred that of King Victor Emmanuel, while a telegram we publish to-day furnishes the intelligence that King Humbert has been stabbed by an assassin and slightly wounded, and that the President of the Council of Ministers, in seizing the miscreant, was mortally wounded. It is added that the reason for this attempt on the life of His Majesty is not known, but that it has no political significance. How the conclusion can be arrived at that this attempt on the life of the King is without political significance while the motives of the assassin are unknown is an enigma that has yet to be solved. The war and rumours of wars, and the generally unsettled state of the continent, are, we think, in some degree answerable for these dastardly attempts on the lives of the sovereigns of three of the chief European states during the last twelve months.

LONDON, 19th Nov., 1878.

In consequence of the Afghan difficulty a Committee is being formed, with Lord Lawrence as Chairman, to favour an immediate meeting of Parliament.
